Turkish City In Quake Area

Here is one of the Turkish cities struck by an earthquake which has taken many thousand lives. It is Ordu, on the Black sea, not as severely hit as some other areas. New earthquakes shook the stricken area today.

New Violent Tremors Rock Stricken Turkey

Greater Death Toll Feared From More Earth Shocks; Planes Drop Food to Half-Clothed Survivors In Fields.

ANKARA—New violent earth tremors in the vicinity of Tokat in northern Anatolia brought fears today of an additional disaster as officials reported direct from Erzincan province that deaths there would total at least 40,000.

The new quakes were accompanied by deep underground rumblings, but the extent of damage was not determined immediately.

SETS UP FEE

State to Charge .25 and 10 Cents to Inspect Pen.

COLUMBUS —(AP)—An admission charge of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for school children desiring to inspect Ohio's ancient penitentiary will go into effect January 2, Warden Frank D. Henderson announced today.

The entire proceeds will be used to provide dental and optical services for prisoners without funds of their own.

Each visitor paying the admission fee will receive a six-page pamphlet containing answers to questions most frequently asked by outsiders about the prison.

Under the new policy, visitors will be admitted daily except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

PROBE BOMBING OF NEWSPAPER

Irish Authorities Blame Blast On Republican Army.

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND —(AP)—Authorities today investigated a time-bomb explosion late last night in the Belfast office of the Dublin newspaper Irish Press, which caused considerable damage but no casualties.

Officials attributed the blast, followed by fire, to the Irish Republican army's terror campaign against British rule over the six northern Irish counties.

The interior of the building had been sprayed with gasoline but police prevented the flames from gaining headway.

DISAPPROVES

Brother of Russian General Says He's For Finland.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)—A brother of Gen. G. M. Stern, hero of Russia's Manchukuo-Mongolian warfare, who is reported to have been placed in charge of the Finnish campaign, today expressed little sympathy with Stern's task.

The brother is Morris Stern, a naturalized American and a Los Angeles grocer. Asked what he thought of the Finnish invasion, Stern said:

"I don't like it. Finland is a democratic country. Why don't they leave her alone?"

Mayor Blocks New Year Eve 'Lid Lifter'

SAYS HE WON'T SIGN MEASURE OK'D BY SOLONS

Council Votes 7 to 1 in 11th Hour Move to Permit Liquor Sale After Midnight.

CONVENE THIS MORNING

'I Won't Touch Damn Thing,' Hunter Asserts; 3 Solons Call Special Meeting.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter blocked an 11th hour effort on the part of city council to allow the sale of liquor in Mansfield night spots after midnight Sunday—New Year eve.

In a special session at 10 a. m. today, council voted, 7-1, to suspend the city ordinance governing hours of sale of liquor, to permit continuous sale after midnight Sunday.

The measure was introduced by Councilman George C. Kyle, who was one of the three councilmen who called the special session. The other two were Arthur L. Croak and Harry Emmons.

After the bill had been passed, however, the mayor tossed a monkey wrench into council's plans by asserting that he would not sign the bill.

Declines Veto, Too. Neither would he veto it, he said, which eliminated the possibility of council reconvening and passing the ordinance over his veto.

"I won't touch the damn thing," the mayor said emphatically. As a result, the ordinance cannot become effective.

The mayor left one door open for the bill to become effective. He pointed out that his successor, William J. Locke, who takes office Jan. 1, could come to City building at the stroke of midnight and sign the bill, thus permitting night spots to operate from midnight Sunday on to whatever hour they wished.

Locke immediately spikd that possibility. "I'm not going to City hall until (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

TAKE UP CENSUS

4 Named to Business Check in County Starting Tuesday.

Appointments of four business and industrial census enumerators for Richland county, including three from Mansfield, was announced today by Don H. Harper, Mt. Vernon, 17th district census supervisor.

Mansfielders named to the posts were Spiro A. Breres, 164 West Fourth street; David L. C. Buchanan, 367 North Main street; and Todd J. Patton, 37 Arlington avenue. The fourth enumerator appointed for the county is Gail H. Hahn, Shelby.

The enumerators will start checking business and industrial firms Tuesday.

Harper said Hilda L. Wampfler, 62 South Main street, Mansfield, had been appointed to a post in the district office at Mt. Vernon. A. W. Strater, Mansfield, is assistant district supervisor.

Officials said children and women particularly were falling victims to the continued bitter cold, 25 and 30 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

The entire Turkish nation was mobilized for relief, and help was sent from other countries.

It was announced that Great Britain contributed 100,000 pounds (about $400,000).

All New Year parties in Turkey were cancelled to help work out the relief problem and care of the homeless survivors.

HELD IN FRAUD

Man Charged In Lottery Said to Cost Americans $30,000,000.

ORLANDO, Fla. —(AP)—Accused of complicity in a lottery in which federal government investigators charged the American public was fleeced of $30,000,000, George Henry Garlick, 60, was under arrest today.

Garlick is accused of originating and sponsoring the grand national horse race charity fund of Liverpool, England.

GETS PAY BOOST

Ford Employees In London Get War Wage Increase.

LONDON —(AP)—The Ford Motor company announced today a "wartime family allowance" for employees with two or more dependents.

To help meet increased living costs, workers on an hourly basis will receive two cents an hour additional, and those whose salaries are under $100 a month will receive approximately $3 more.

Trucks Made In U. S. Bound for Europe's War

These American-made trucks, hundreds and hundreds of them, are parked at a pier on Staten Island, a free trade zone, awaiting shipment to the war front in France. The trucks are to be taken across the Atlantic in British and French freighters.

3 ENTER G. O. P. PRIMARY IN '40

Nichols and Brown Take Out Petitions for Prosecutor, Maxwell for Assembly.

Three candidates—first in the field for Richland county office in 1940—had taken out petitions today for the nomination for prosecuting attorney and state representative.

Atty. R. J. Nichols and Atty. Raymond J. Brown, both of Mansfield, entered the race for the nomination for county prosecutor while Harry Maxwell, Lexington, was circulating nominating petitions for representative to the general assembly. All three are Republicans.

The early entry of two Republicans in the contest for prosecutor forecast a heated race for the nomination in the May primaries. Another Republican, Theodore Lutz, Shelby law director, is expected to seek the nomination for the same office.

While no one has announced on the Democratic side, Harold T. Lutz, present assistant prosecutor has indicated he will be a candidate.

Atty. Nichols was assistant prosecutor in 1933-34 when J. V. Will was prosecutor. Brown was defeated for a city council post two years ago.

Maxwell won the Republican nomination for state representative two years ago, but he was defeated by Ralph Lutz of Lexington in a close contest at the general election.

The only other candidates who have announced for county offices are County Commissioner Ray Hout and Guy Stewart who will seek re-election. Both are Democrats.

WRECK KILLS 40

150 Hurt as Italian Express Crashes Into Troop Train.

NAPLES —(AP)—At least 40 persons were killed and 150 injured today when an express train crashed into the rear of a troop train at the Torre Annunziata station, 18 miles south of here.

Rescuers searched the wreckage for more bodies.

The fast passenger train plunged into the rear of the troop train carrying soldiers, which was standing on a siding at the station.

The passenger train had the right of way, investigators said, and was to have passed, but a switch apparently failed to function.

The express plunged onto the siding and ploughed into the cars, full of troops, including high ranking officers.

Two inches of snow and intense cold hampered rescue work.

STUDY PENSIONS

Eagles, Ohio Labor Federation Would Increase Checks to $40.

COLUMBUS —(AP)—A proposal to amend Ohio's old-age pension law to raise the maximum monthly pension from $30 to $40 will be discussed at a joint meeting of representatives of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Ohio State Federation of Labor in Columbus next Thursday, it was announced today. Another proposal to be discussed would establish a state board to administer the pension law.

Student Union Denounces U. S. Check on Reds; Calls Dies Committee 'Menace'

Rejects Proposal to Brand Russians as War Aggressors.

(By United Press) MADISON, Wis.—The American Student Union's fifth annual convention denounced the Department of Justice today for its activities against the Dies congressional committee on un-American activities a "national menace."

The convention made the denunciations in resolutions adopted after it had rejected, 322 to 29, an amendment branding Russia the aggressor in the war with Finland.

The Dies resolution had been expected. The committee had branded the union as a "breeding ground for communism." The resolution condemned the committee for "its attacks upon all progressive organizations including the American Student Union" and urged congress "to put an end to this national menace and appropriate funds instead for the LaFollette civil liberties committee."

"The Dies committee is leading the drive to line us up with the allies in the new world war by creating war hysteria through unwarranted attacks upon progress, peace and labor organizations, and its vicious activities threaten the destruction of American democracy," the resolution said.

The Department of Justice resolution was adopted by a voice vote after the convention had rejected, 192 to 165, a similar resolution which referred specifically to government prosecution of Fritz Kuhn, bund leader.

Russia's 'Best' Launches Drive In Snow Storm

Battle on Mannerheim Line Believed Entering Decisive Stage; Russian Losses In Month of War Set at 100,000 Dead or Incapacitated.

By IVER MILLER, United Press Staff Correspondent. HELSINKI, Finland—Fresh Russian troops from the crack Moscow garrison were thrown against the Finnish Mannerheim line today in a snow storm.

It was the 25th day of a battle which now seemed entering its decisive stage.

The big men of the capital garrison, often seen by visitors to Moscow in the Red square parades on Russian holidays, are representative of the best men in the Russian army.

Pursuing their tactics of exerting unremitting pressure against several points of the Finnish line simultaneously, the Russians sent the Moscow men against the Finnish right wing while other big new concentrations massed at various points to the east.

Today marked the end of the first month of the Russo-Finnish war, a war which the world expected to last about a week in all.

Neutral military observers estimated that the Russians had lost, in one month in men killed, wounded or otherwise incapacitated up to 100,000, including those with frozen limbs; more than 300 tanks, 300 airplanes, without achieving an important military success despite the fact that weather conditions had been generally favorable to the attackers.

Vital points of the Finnish defense lines everywhere had withstood continuous assaults. The main axis of the Mannerheim line remained unbreached and during this one month the Finns had been working day and night constructing second and third defense lines, in good depth, to support their original lines.

The latest estimates I have heard of the ratio of losses between Finnish defenders and Russian attackers had been one man to 11. Other estimates run as high as one to 40.

Despite great superiority in numbers of airplanes, and domination of the air, the Russians with inaccurate bombings and low quality bombs have failed to interfere with the Finnish prosecution of the war. This is the statement of Finnish sources, which my own observations have not tended to disprove.

It is estimated that a total of at least 1,500 Russian planes—not necessarily all different ones—have been over Finland in raiding and reconnaissance excursions. Once there were 350 in one day.

The most troublesome feature of the Russian attack has been to the Finns the red army's sparing use of artillery ammunition. Hour by hour, day by day, the Russian artillery hurls over thousands of three, six and eight inch shells, often seemingly at random over back areas. A large proportion of these shells explode harmlessly in woods. Nevertheless the great majority of Finnish wounded are shell casualties.

RUMOR: Reports Persist on Goering's 'Disloyalty' to Nazis

(By International News Service) LONDON—The London Daily Sketch reported from Amsterdam today that Chancellor Hitler's aides are investigating charges that Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, No. 2 Nazi, engaged in "grossly insubordinate activities against the best interests of Germany."

The dispatch claimed Goering contacted a British secret service agent and planned to meet him on the German-Dutch border at Venloo when German Secret Police Chief Heinrich Himmler intervened.

Himmler's action resulted in the Venloo shooting incident which brought about the German arrest of two alleged British agents and which was linked by the Germans with the Munich beer hall bombing that narrowly missed killing or injuring Hitler.

MUST WIN: Hitler Says Nazis Will Win War Forced on Them

(By United Press) BERLIN—Germany faces the "most decisive year in her history," Fuehrer Adolf Hitler said today in a New Year proclamation to the National Socialist party.

Hitler also issued a proclamation to the armed forces in which he said that "before us lies the hardest kind of battle for the existence or non-existence of the German people."

Hitler ended his message by expressing his own and the German people's "proven confidence" in the armed forces.

"With such soldiers," he said, "Germany must be victorious." Hitler's proclamation to the party said of Germany's war aims that "Germany and Europe must be freed of the ravishment and endless threat which have their origins in past and present day England."

"Weapons must this time be struck definitely from the hands of warmongers and declaimers of war," Hitler told the party. "We fight, therefore, not only against the injustice of Versailles but to prevent even greater injustice intended to replace it. We are fighting for the construction of a new Europe."

In his proclamation to the army Hitler said that "Germany must be victorious" and the message to the party said that "Germany will emerge victorious from the war forced upon her."

He said that the course of the war has shown that the Allies have not dared to attack the west wall and that in engagements thus far German soldiers have proved their traditional skill and courage.

It was announced that Hitler's annual New Year reception to the diplomatic corps will be suspended and that instead a visitors' book, which diplomats may sign, will be placed at the chancellery.

In his proclamation to the armed forces Hitler said:

"In the coming year we ask the Almighty, who in the past year took us under His protection, to give us His blessing again and strengthen us in the performance of our duty."

"For before us lies the hardest kind of battle for the existence or non-existence of the German people."

Gifts Await First Mansfield Baby Born In New Year

The annual "stork handicap" is on and there's a raft of gifts awaiting the winner.

Mansfield's first baby born after Father Time flips over the calendar to the New Year will be welcomed by a number of Mansfield merchants with appropriate gifts.

There will be a bassinette from the Batson Furniture company; a blanket from the Jones funeral home and free ambulance service for mother and baby from the hospital to their home; a warm, fleecy bathrobe from Kobacker's; a month's supply of milk from A. J. Dairy; an electric milk warmer from the Ohio Public Service company; a surprise gift from Rogers and company; a pair of shoes from the Liberty Shoe store; $5 worth of photographs at Perez Studio; silver coffee maker from the Ohio Fuel Gas company; and a complimentary laundry (for the family) from the Myers Laundry.

The rules governing the "stork race" are the same as in other years: It must be a bona fide Mansfield baby, its parents residing within the corporate limits of the city and the child must be born in the city. The winner will be the first baby born after midnight Sunday. Official records of the hospital, Visiting Nurses and doctors, will be used.

Husband Sues for Injuries Suffered By Wife In Fall

A second damage suit had been filed today in common pleas court today as the result of injuries suffered by Mrs. Minnie Richards, 14 East First street, last October when she fell through the floor of the porch at her home.

The second action, asking $5,000, was filed by Mrs. Richards' husband, John M. Richards, against Harry C. O'Brien, former city waterworks superintendent and owner of the property where the accident occurred.

Mrs. Richards brought an action for $15,000 against O'Brien 10 days ago for personal injuries and the loss of her unborn child which she contended resulted from her injuries and shock.

Richards says in his petition that his wife's injuries deprived him of "her services and companionship."

Both Richards and Mrs. Richards are represented in their suits by Attys. H. M. Rust and C. F. Creedman.

Woman Discovers She's Still Wife, Divorce Cancelled

ASHLAND—Now-you've-got-it-now-you-haven't is the status of the divorce decree which Judge H. E. Culbertson issued to Elizabeth F. Semans Dec. 4 and rescinded today.

A journal entry in probate court today carries this notation: "The court by its own motion vacates a decree of divorce given Dec. 4 to Elizabeth F. Semans, for fraud practiced by the plaintiff on the court at the hearing."

Judge Culbertson, who is openly disapproving of easy divorces and who points with pride to his record of issuing less than four divorces a month, said "further misconduct on the part of the plaintiff since the decree was issued and in violation of that decree," was responsible for his action.

Mrs. Semans who was—and is—the wife of Byron Semans was called in the hearing this week of Howard Leach for violation of his probation and who is now serving a term in Ohio penitentiary. Mrs. Semans was questioned as to attentions paid her by Leach after he had been placed on probation in connection with an embezzlement conviction.

Bridges, CIO Leader, Cleared of Communist Charges

DEPORTATION CHARGE LATER TO BE DROPPED

Labor Leader 'Radical' But Not a Red, Says Harvard Law School Dean

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Harry Bridges, Pacific coast leader of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was cleared today of a charge that he is a member of or affiliated with the communist party.

The ruling, made by Dean James M. Landis of Harvard Law school, who was designated special trial examiner to hear the case, has the effect of recommending cancellation of the deportation warrant issued by the federal immigration service against Bridges on March 2, 1938. The immigration service had sought to deport Bridges as an undesirable alien to his native Australia.

Landis found that the evidence produced by the government "does not permit the finding that . . . Bridges is either a member of the communist party or affiliated with that party."

Bridges' aims, he said, are "energetically radical . . . but the methods he seeks to employ to realize them are other than those that the framework of democratic and constitutional government permits."

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins can approve Landis' report and cancel the warrant, or she can ignore it and order Bridges deported as an undesirable alien.

Authoritative sources said, however, that it was unlikely that Miss Perkins would ignore the report.

Landis made no finding on the question whether the U. S. communist party "advocates, advises or teaches the overthrow of the government of the United States by force or violence or causes to be written, circulated, distributed, printed, published, or displayed printed matter advising, advocating, or teaching the overthrow of the government of the United States by force or violence."

Such a finding was unnecessary, he said, because he had not found evidence to establish Bridges' membership or affiliation with that party.

Science Discovers Soil Fumigation Will Triple Yield

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Tripling or even quadrupling the yield of farm lands through soil fumigation was a possibility advanced today at the 105th annual convention of the American association for the advancement of science.

Through the use of tear gas — "chloropierin" — two horticulturists of the Rhode Island agricultural experiment station, Drs. Frank L. Howard and Fred K. Crandall, reported the normal yield of tomatoes increased as much as 378 per cent.

Soil fumigation at the rate of 200 pounds of chloropierin to the acre increased the yield of No. 1 tomatoes 132 per cent in 1937; 378 per cent in 1938, and 246 per cent in 1939, the scientists reported.

They also declared that the leaves exhibited less injury and the roots showed less injury from soil organisms in the treated areas.

They found, however, that an annual application was necessary since only slight benefits were evident the second season.

DIES AT AGE 76

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Shrader, Native Of Butler To Be Buried Monday.

WILLARD — Mrs. Elizabeth J. Shrader, 76, a native of Butler and widow of William Shrader, died here Friday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Hutchinson.

Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Guy Diefenbaugh, Mrs. Jack Denney and Mrs. Hutchinson all of Willard; two sons, Eastman Shrader of Willard and Robert Shrader of Wheaton, Ill., and 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Fink funeral home with Rev. Paul W. Sharp, pastor of the United Brethren church, officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carr, near 176 South Adams street, at General hospital Friday afternoon.

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. John Bissman, 337 Park avenue west, Friday afternoon.

A daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. John Young, R. D. 5 at General hospital this morning.

Up and Down THE STREET

The wife of a Mansfield professional man purchased a sweepstakes ticket on a race to be run in England sometime ago. A friend, who had correspondence with English concerns, decided to have some fun and took a letter postmarked London, and left it in her mailbox. It informed her that she had won a valuable information that she held a lucky ticket. He offered her $4,000 for a share. She refused to sell . . . and enthusiastically started making plans for home decorations and furniture. When the joke was revealed . . . well, it wasn't safe for the prankster to visit the home.

The night watchman at the Martin Steel Products company thought he had stumbled onto something "hot" last night when he discovered a wire on the outside of the building running through a window and connected with a transformer on the inside. He reported it to police and it was disconnected, but before detectives could start an investigation today, Kent Oberlin, sales manager of the company, reported that the wire wasn't a "fuse" but merely an aerial which some employee had connected to a small crystal radio so that he could have music while he worked.

It wasn't a very happy holiday week for Miss Meriam Gray, 130 East Second street. Miss Gray has been an invalid for six years, a victim of arthritis, and her constant companion was a white Fox terrier which seldom left her side. On Dec. 14 the dog strayed away and despite repeated efforts Miss Gray has not heard from her pet. The dog was 12 years old, had a short tail, a brown right ear, and a speckled left ear. To say that she would appreciate hearing about her pet goes without saying.

A holiday greeting almost as big as a luncheon cloth, was received — belatedly — by Don Cram, physical instructor at the Y. M. C. A. It was from Don's brother, Ramon Cram, promotion manager of a Columbus newspaper. When unfolded it measures 27 by 39 inches. Printed in colors, it shows the brother's family, including the dog, gathered around a huge stocking filled with gifts.

ENDS OWN LIFE

Lucas Man, 36, Shoots Self in Garage of Employer.

LUCAS — Herschel Applegate, 36, died early today from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the garage at the home of O. A. Rummel.

Applegate was an employee of the O. A. Rummel dairy here. His body was found in the garage at 7:30 a. m. by Rummel. Coroner Hugh Winkler, who gave a verdict of suicide, said the man shot himself in the heart with a .22 rifle. He had been in ill health.

Survivors include six brothers and a sister. They are Abraham of near Lucas, Clarence of California, Wayne and John of Mifflin, Russell of near Perryville and Clarence of Mansfield, and Mrs. Marie E. Rummel of Mansfield. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Applegate, of Mifflin, also survive.

The body was taken to the Bierly funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

DIES IN ASHLAND

ASHLAND — Franklin Jacobs of Samaritan avenue died yesterday after a long illness. Mr. Jacobs, 72, had been a traveling salesman for 44 years and was a member of the Ashland Methodist church and later of a Lakewood Methodist church.

Survivors include his wife, Sadie, two daughters, Mrs. Marie Heinrich, Mrs. Lois Dobbin, and a son, William H. Jacobs, all of Milwaukee Wis., three brothers and six grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

BIGELOW HOLDS COUNCIL REINS

He Holds Deciding Vote in Election of Cincinnati's New Mayor.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow returns Monday to the balance of power in city council and thereby puts two major questions to the politically-minded of this city of 450,000.

Will there be a deadlock in the otherwise evenly-divided council in the selection of a mayor? The choice was believed to lie between incumbent James Garfield Stewart, a Republican, and Russell Wilson, veteran charter leader and one-time newspaperman who formerly held the non-administrative post.

Elected as an independent at the time his old-age pension and initiative legislation proposals went down to record defeat in November, Bigelow could cast the deciding vote as the nine-man council meets to perform its biennial function. Other members include four Republicans and four adherents of the charter movement that inaugurated the city manager form of government in 1925.

Four years ago when he first entered council, Bigelow contributed the decisive ballot for Wilson. But indication that he might refuse to take part in Monday's election was given when he did not appear at an organization meeting of council's committee-on-committees and declined to comment why.

Thus, there appeared a chance that he would let his evenly-divided colleagues "fight it out" themselves for the mayorship. A pioneer advocate of Henry George's single-tax doctrine, the preacher-politician was at the peak of his influence as an organizer for the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice when he first entered council in 1936.

DEMS INVITE G. O. P. LEADERS TO $100-A-PLATE JACKSON DINNER

(By United Press) WASHINGTON — The Democratic party invited senate and house Republican leaders today to attend their $100-a-plate Jackson day dinner, assuring them that President Roosevelt's speech on that occasion will be "strictly non-partisan in character."

The precedent-breaking decision to ask prominent Republicans to sit down at a Democratic love feast, held solely to raise funds for the 1940 Democratic presidential campaign, was made with Mr. Roosevelt's approval.

ILL YEAR, DIES

Mrs. Olive Tingley Stricken at Home at Age 72.

Mrs. Olive Dillon Tingley, 72, wife of C. B. Tingley, prominent fruit farm operator on Olivesburg road, died at the home today after an illness of a year resulting from a stroke.

Born in Mansfield, Dec. 8, 1867, Mrs. Tingley was married 36 years ago. Two sons preceded her in death.

Surviving are three step-sons, Roy, Thomas and Frank of Mansfield; four step-daughters, Mrs. Iva Bush and Mrs. Ernest Wilson of Mansfield, and Mrs. H. F. Wilson and Miss Ona L. Tingley of Chicago; a brother, Wilbert Dillon of Mansfield, and a sister, Mrs. Gust Culler of Lucas. She was a life-long member of the First Methodist church.

Funeral services will be held at the Jones Memorial at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. E. C. Corwin, pastor of the First M. E. church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will be at the home until Tuesday noon.

ILLNESS FATAL TO WIDOW, 82

Mrs. Martha Buchan Stricken at Home; Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Martha Jane Leisten-snyder Buchan, 82, widow of George Buchan, died at her home, 873 Park avenue west, yesterday following a long illness.

Mrs. Buchan was born in Savannah, March 2, 1857, and lived in this city 35 years. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

Two sons, William and Harry of Mansfield, and two grandchildren, Martha and Helen Buchan, survive.

Services will be held at the Finetree funeral home at 2 p. m. tomorrow with Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in the Savannah cemetery.

MANSFIELDERS PLEAD GUILTY TO ABDUCTION

Get 5 to 30 Years on Kidnap Charge; Youth Sentenced for Slugging Guard.

Three men were sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary yesterday afternoon by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, two on their pleas of guilty to indictments for kidnaping and the other for assaulting a guard at the Mansfield reformatory.

Sentenced to five to 30 years in the pen on the kidnaping charge were Earl S. Montgomery, 46, and George Fancher, 39, both of Mansfield. They confessed abducting Harold J. Stauffer in Mansfield several weeks ago and forcing him to drive to a spot near Bucyrus where they robbed him of a watch and a small amount of change and took his car after shoving him out.

Ralph Copeland, 22, colored, of Allen county, an O. S. R. inmate, was given a one-to-15 year sentence in the pen when he pleaded guilty to an indictment for assault with intent to kill.

Admits Striking Guard. Copeland admitted striking Charles J. McFadden, 54, a guard at the reformatory, with a piece of wood Nov. 11 in the reformatory furniture factory. McFadden lost the sight of his left eye as a result of the blow.

Copeland, who previously escaped from the reformatory and was captured, was serving a sentence for possessing burglary tools. He was returned here from the penitentiary to face the assault charge.

Fancher, one of the men sentenced for kidnaping, had previously pleaded guilty to an indictment for armed robbery. He withdrew that plea and then pleaded guilty to the kidnaping charge. A conviction for armed robbery carries a minimum sentence of 10 years. Both Fancher and Montgomery had criminal records.

Judge Huston said Alvin Guthrie, 23, of Shiloh, indicted for auto theft, would be returned to the reformatory as a parole violator. He was released several months ago after serving a sentence.

Clarence Lape of Belleville, indicted for assault and battery, will go on trial Tuesday. Lape denied the charge when arraigned last week. Atty. C. H. Frehafer was appointed to defend him.

Trial of George Call, 30, Sharon township, accused child molester who was indicted on three counts, was set for Monday, Jan. 8. Call is under indictments for rape, attempted rape, and kidnaping. He pleaded innocent to the first two, but has not been arraigned on the other.

HUNT PASSER OF BOGUS CHECK

Farm Bureau Victimized By Man Who Ordered Coal.

Police today sought a bogus-check passer who victimized the Farm Bureau of $20.55 yesterday.

Vance Clever, manager of the bureau, told police that a man came to the office and ordered two tons of coal for a Highland avenue address and paid for it with a check for $36. The man received $20.55 in change. The truck driver said the people on Highland had not ordered the coal.

The check was a cashier's check drawn on the First National Bank of Toledo, payable to R. S. Wade and signed by J. L. Thomas. Upon investigation it was found that there was no bank in Toledo of that name.

The Quints Make no Gain By Decision Putting Them In Home of the Parents

—By JANE WILLIAMS

AND SO the little girls of Callander are to give up their fairy book existence and go live in a house with their parents and their brothers and sisters. Most people will feel that it is the natural and best thing for them.

I am one of the few who could weep at the announcement. I have interviewed the father of the quints, have had off-the-record talks with Dr. Alan Dafoe and with the natives around Callander, and have seen how the parents were content to live, despite their opportunities for better living conditions and higher standards.

Turning the quints over to them won't raise their standards. It will lower that of the children, if anything.

A CLEVELAND newspaper lists the word "blackout" as one of the new words developed this year by the European scene. "Tant so. The word has been used in stage parlance ever since George White and the late Florenz Ziegfeld developed the "blackout" which is a quick dousing of the light after a sketchy little scene. And it has long been a technical term in Hollywood studios, and means just what it does in Europe—a quick black out of lights.

HOT OFF THE GRIDDLE: Louis Bromfield has just sold the screen rights to his new novel, "Bombay Nights," which is still running as a serial in Cosmopolitan magazine and which will not be concluded for several months. . . . No foundation for Ed Sullivan's story in Chicago Tribune this week that Bromfield had purchased "a pretentious home" just outside Hollywood, according to Mrs. B.

IT HAS been a happy and prosperous year for John Steinbeck, author of "Grapes of Wrath." The book finishes the year still in the best seller class, with 300,000 copies sold and still selling approximately 10,000 copies a week. It will be published soon in illustrated text, by the Limited Editions club, which issues new editions of books that have come to be recognized as classics. The Steinbeck novel has the distinction of going into the "classic" class the same year it was published. It is still banned from several public libraries over the country, however.

- WHAT a tough life Ruby Keeler must have had with Al Jolson. He called the little Irish dancer, according to her story, "stupid," not once, but many times. And that, obviously, is not true. No girl could be stupider who marries a man who takes her and her family out of poverty and showers them with riches and luxuries; and who gives her an alimony present of $400 a week.
- For $400 a week you could call me a moron.
- THE Film Daily poll of the "ten best" pictures of 1939 ends tomorrow and the results will be available sometime in January. In the meantime motion-picture editors all over the country are doing a bit of ten-besting of their own. Why not? It's one person's opinion, no more, no less.
- It was easier this year to pick out the "best" films, for there weren't too many of them. Our list of ten, sent to Film Daily, was easily topped with Dark Victory, one of the finest emotional dramas of all picture history. Then there followed Mr. Smith Goes to Washington, Goodbye Mr. Chips, Pygmalion, The Rains Came, Stage Coach, Wuthering Heights, Union Pacific, Angels With Dirty Faces and The Old Maid.
- BUT there is merely generalizing. There is no basis of comparison between many fine pictures because they come under entirely different classifications. And so, to please ourselves, we've chosen the best under ten classifications. (Skip this if you aren't interested in moom-pitchers.)
1. The best emotional dramas: Dark Victory, The Old Maid, The Rains Came and Wuthering Heights.
 2. The best romantic comedies: Honeymoon in Bali, Bachelor Mother, Fifth Avenue Girl.
 3. Best sentimental drama—Mr. Smith Goes to Washington, Goodbye Mr. Chips, Love Affair.
 4. Best of historical drama—Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex, Young Mr. Lincoln, Juarez.
 5. Best action drama—Stage Coach, Union Pacific, Dodge City.
 6. Best musical show: The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle, Babes In Arms.
 7. Best entertainment for women audiences—The Women, Honeymoon in Bali, Love Affair.
 8. Best I-Can-Take-It, rough-stuff-for-men—Angels With Dirty Faces, Each Dawn I Die.
 9. Best slap-stuck comedy—Marx Brothers at the Circus, early scenes of Hollywood Cavalcade.
 10. Best pictures for the whole family, including the kids—Wizard of Oz and all of the Judge Hardy family pictures.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Labor Leader In Chicago Admits He's Dictator But Insists His Rule's Good

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — It was no sudden sense of power which emboldened Jimmy Petrillo, the president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, to censor three theatrical shows so as to eliminate mention of John L. Lewis of the CIO.

Jimmy admits he is a dictator, but insists he is a good dictator. However, he abhors Mr. Lewis as one who would become a bad dictator of the whole American labor movement.

I discuss Mr. Petrillo on the basis of personal acquaintance and inquiry. He is respected in Chicago, where the labor movement is preyed upon by criminals of the lowest kind. Jimmy gets $25,000 a year and works full time for his union, even in his political role as member of the park board.

He is so alert to turn up a dollar in pay for the treasury of his union that a resident of Chicago, sitting down to play a few bars on the piano in his own home, has a feeling that he is likely to receive a bill next day for a full night's wages of Jimmy's musicians.

Not so long ago the Chicago Daily News imported from China a little animal called a giant panda. The newspaper arranged a bit of ceremony to solemnize its arrival, and someone thought it would be appropriate that a detachment of Chinese boy scouts turn out and blow a few bugle notes at the railroad station.

A representative of Jimmy's union phoned the paper to say that if so few as one of them blew a single bleat the paper would get a bill for a day's wages for eight musicians, payable to the treasury of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. The spokesman for the Daily News said the paper had nothing to do with the presence of the Chinese boy scouts, but the union agent said that, nevertheless, if any of them horned a note the paper would have to pay.

About this time the panda came in and the Chinese boy scouts turned their welcome, so the financial tribute automatically became due, but I believe that was one case in which Jimmy's union missed a tackle.

He is a strong advocate of the stand-by system whereby union men must be paid for doing work if there is work to be done, or for the time it would take them to do overwork which has already been done by other union men elsewhere.

His union, in collaboration with the stage hands, has practically abolished "the road" by extravagant demands for the non-performance of strictly imaginary work.

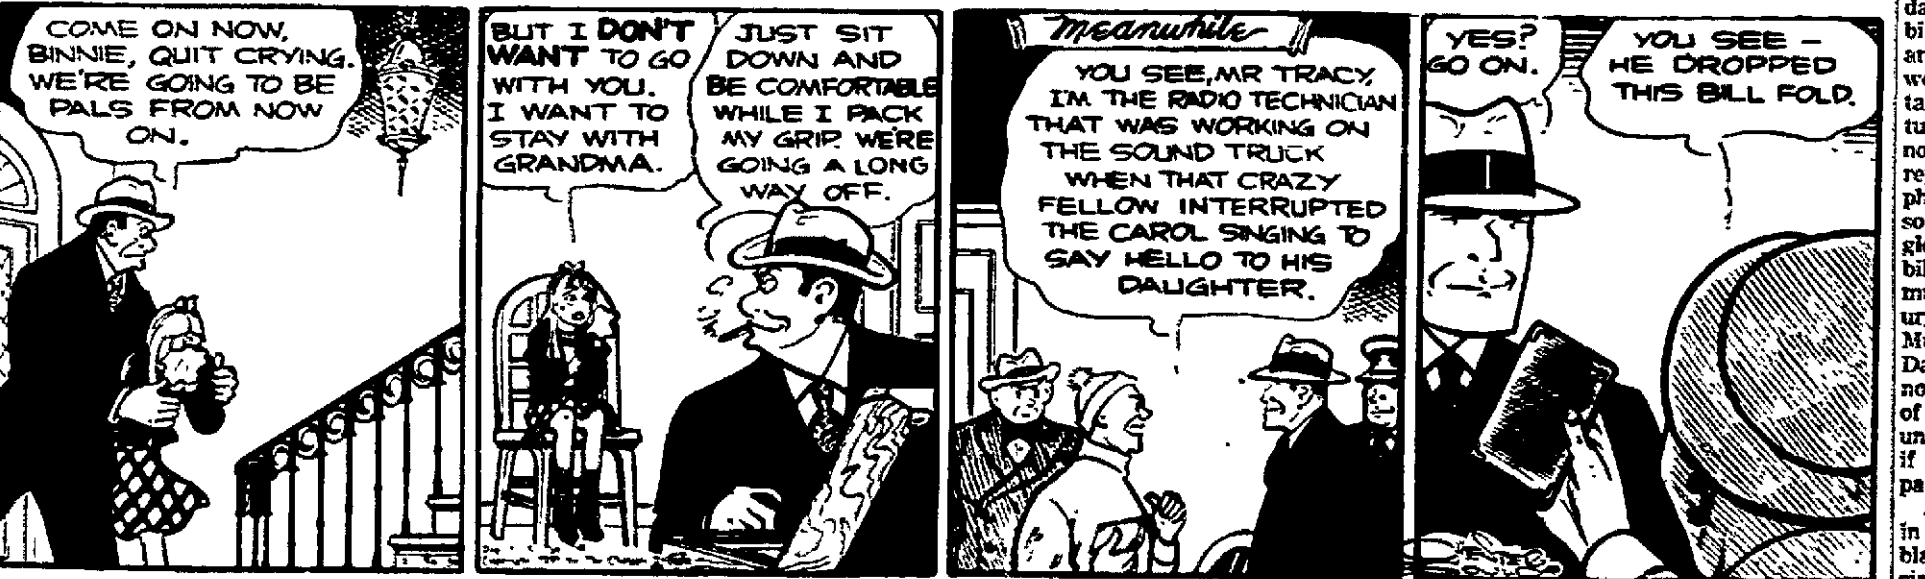

Jimmy is proud of his success in getting $30,000 a year of the taxpayers' money for public concerts. He holds that these concerts have raised the cultural level of Chicago, and thus have been worth the money, but he was less considerate one day a few weeks ago when Mr. Matt Taylor of the Elevator Operators' and Starters' Union appeared before the park board to demand $24,000 a year in stand-by pay for men who theoretically would have been employed in the buildings of the park board if the board had not installed escalators and self-service elevators. The principle was the same, but Jimmy denounced Mr. Taylor and his demand was turned down.

Jimmy hates John L. Lewis, and being a dictator and cultural director of Chicago, it is within his province to censor out of any play or movie placed on public exhibition there any matter which is personally, politically or otherwise offensive to him.

MAYOR BLOCKS 'LID LIFTER'

Says He Won't Sign Ordinance Passed by Council Allowing New Year Eve Liquor.

about 10 a. m. Monday," he said, "and I certainly have no intention of going there and signing anything at midnight."

Thus it seemed that a last-minute move to open wide the doors of city liquor emporiums—legally—had met a death about as sudden as the conception of the move itself.

Kyle, Emmons and Croak last night instructed Council Clerk William J. Beer to call a special meeting of council at 10 a. m. today and notify other members.

According to law a special council meeting can be called on 12 hours notice on the action of at least three councilmen. The three gave Beer their instructions at 7 p. m. yesterday.

Schultz Casts 'No.'

C. N. Schultz, veteran Second Ward councilman, alone, opposed council's plan to allow the sale of liquor during the early morning hours Monday.

Schultz voted against the suspension of the rules and on the vote on the measure, but led a bit of a play-by-play before Council Clerk William J. Beer, Jr., called the roll.

Questioning the legality of the special session called by his three co-members, he appealed to City Solicitor Marion D. Wacker for an opinion concerning any irregularities.

Ward told him that the only question appeared to be on whether the three councilmen had concurred on the matter.

James E. Crum, attending his final session as councilman-at-large, halted discussion on the topic when he moved that council waive responsibility of any irregularities that might arise about the question.

Schultz then demanded a roll call on the motion, something that is rarely done by council on incidental moves dealing with legislation.

Schultz after the meeting said he opposed the passage of the ordinance on the grounds that he did not think the "bars should be let down" just because it was New Year eve.

Kyle sponsored the move, he said, to "clear up a bad situation, pointing out that was 'small towns' as not to follow the action taken by numerous other cities by making special provisions for liquor dealers to open their establishments in view of the double holiday.

Regardless of the mayor's action to block council's move, liquor will be sold in Mansfield early Monday morning ordinance or no ordinance, it appeared today.

The city's night spots were making preparations for a "big" night and reservations were in order at principal downtown clubs.

Night Spots Get Ready.

At least one spot has prepared to open at 6 p. m. and will have cover charges for only the men. Women guests will be admitted without charge. Another has made plans for a 9 p. m. opening and others will open their bars at midnight Sunday.

These preparations went ahead in the face of a statement made yesterday by Police Chief Meade K. Bates that the liquor ordinance would be enforced. However, with only a few men on duty on the night shift and little possibility that others would be called out, there appeared little chance of strict enforcement.

RECENT BRIDE ENTERTAINED AT PARTY BY CRESTLINE FRIENDS

CRESTLINE — Mrs. Robert Taylor was the honor guest for a "Coffee Clatch" when a group of friends were entertained Thursday evening by her sister, Miss Mildred Morton at her home on West Bucyrus street. The affair was arranged as a surprise to the honoree who was the former Eleanor Morton.

Fiesta ware service was used by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Charles Morton, and Mrs. Paul Scholles, in serving. During the evening the group hemmed towels for the honoree and found enjoyment in watching her find their shower of miscellaneous gifts by replacing misplaced objects about the house. A bride's book was also given by the group to Mrs. Taylor.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. A two-tier wedding cake decorated in pink and white centered the table.

Twenty-eight were in attendance for the meeting of the officers and teachers of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school Thursday evening at the church. A covered-dish supper, in charge of Mrs. George Beck, opened the meeting.

Rev. C. H. Lange appointed George Beck as temporary chairman to preside for the nomination of officers.

Russell Sherer was re-elected as Sunday school superintendent; Ernest Weaver, assistant superintendent; Miss Mildred Schwert, secretary; and Charles Helfrich, treasurer.

The group discussed the purchase of new song books for the Sunday school and also the appointment of a librarian to care for the books. Rev. Lange then called on the various teachers for comment of their work, after which he discussed the lesson for next Sunday.

CORN QUOTA IN CRAWFORD CUT BY 4,000 ACRES

County's Allotment Under '40 Schedule to Total 33,866 Acres, Report.

BUCYRUS — Crawford county's allotment in the 1940 crop control schedule has been set at 33,866 acres, a decrease of nearly 4,000 acres, according to an announcement by A. D. Holt, chairman of the Crawford county AAA committee.

Allotments are being mailed next week to individual Crawford county farmers, who are urged to plant within their allotments. Holt reported.

The high carry over of corn from 1939 is responsible for the decrease in allotment, Holt advises.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow and Monday—and leave your car in the garage if you're going to a booze party.

Now comes the season of new calendars—and soon we'll be having the same old trouble with writing it "1940."

Some are now recalling that it was Bismarck, at a much earlier time, who observed: "The Russian army is a lath painted to look like iron."

Cheerful Outlook for 1940

ASIDE from an uneasiness caused by conditions in Europe, and uncertainty as to the course of congress and the federal administration in a presidential election year, Americans are inclined to face the new year more cheerfully than for a long time.

Business has been improving during the past several months, with competent observers predicting a continuance of gains through at least the first half of 1940. More people are at work and relief lists are shrinking in consequence. By almost any material standard the prospect is better than could have been expected six months ago.

Throughout America there is firm determination to keep this country out of war, with increasing faith that this can be done by following a firm and sane course in national affairs.

Belief is that our own country and the world can be best served by keeping aloof from foreign entanglements, thus preserving our strength and resources to aid in the work of rehabilitation when the time comes.

It is as a strong and united nation, devoting chief attention to solution of internal problems and to seeking ways in which the welfare of additional millions of Americans can be advanced, that this country enters 1940 with possibilities for unprecedented progress.

Justified as Safety Measure

OUTGOING and incoming city officials appear to have followed a sensible course in ruling against liquor sales places opening for the two-and-a-half hours at the start of the new year, as would be permitted by state liquor board regulations, but prohibited by city ordinance.

If considered simply as a traffic safety measure, this decision would seem justified, for in a post-midnight drinking orgy such as might be precipitated by adoption of a wide-open policy on that occasion, it would be too much to expect that accidents due to reckless and drunken driving could be avoided.

In a number of cities this fear is being expressed, with growing dread that 1940 will be ushered in with even higher traffic toll than marked the Christmas week-end.

In Detroit it has been announced by traffic judges that "holiday drunk drivers will get the limit," on which the Detroit News comments: "The traffic problem is becoming difficult even if all drunk drivers are kept off the road. Certainty that driving while intoxicated will be followed by imprisonment, heavy fines, and on repetition, loss of privilege of driving at all, will help to lessen the evil."

With pavements in slippery condition, as they are likely to be over the year-end, making even careful driving more than ordinarily hazardous, the danger involved in driving after drinking is too great for anyone to risk. Use of a taxi, instead of the family car, in getting to and from a party at which intoxicants are to be served, will be a wise precaution against incurring hospital or mortuary costs.

Health Factors In Aviation

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION must interest itself in new problems caused by the development of aviation, says Dr. Alfred C. Reed, professor of tropical medicine at the University of California. Germs are transported along with passengers. Quarantine is difficult.

Those who fly, either as passengers or pilots, often must encounter swift and violent changes in climate, environment and altitude. Some of them are able to meet these changes. Others need the help of medical science.

Detailed information is now sought on radiation, air pressures, dust carriage and the rapidity of physical changes. The doctors intend to discover the ills created and their remedies.

This is not an entirely new problem. Dr. Reed points out that automobile traffic brought to light health factors unrelated to actual injuries incurred in accidents. "Since man began to move about on this earth," he explains, "his forms of transportation have been changing constantly, and solutions always lag behind new problems of traffic."

Boyhood's Lasting Appeal

ANOTHER Mickey has risen to first place in popular esteem. He is no real rival to the still beloved Mickey Mouse. The two, though both screen heroes, operate in quite different realms. Mickey Mouse is a figment of an artist's imagination. Mickey Rooney is a homely young man who is pretty much like a lot of boys everybody knows.

There are those who complain that Mickey Rooney "mugs" too much. But there are far more who think everything he does is great and there couldn't be too much of any of it. That is why Mickey Rooney is first of the big ten screen performers as rated by box office response to his pictures. He has displaced Shirley Temple and run ahead of other former favorites, jumping from fourth place rating last year. The parts Mickey takes on the screen are wholesome, and they are humorous. Adults laugh and think both of their own youth and the problems presented by their children today.

Over-Production of Degrees

THE CURRENT system of conferring honorary academic degrees on persons who have not earned them by meeting customary educational requirements is being fired upon by Dr. Frederick P. Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation.

The ordinary academic degrees, he observes, used to serve a practical purpose in medicine, law, theology and the arts. But lately the creation of academic degrees has increased to an absurd extent. Thus in 1935-6 American colleges and universities awarded 163 different kinds of degrees, creating 143,000 bachelors, 18,000 masters and 2,700 doctors. Mere "honorary degrees," implying no special study or qualification, were awarded to 1,350 persons.

It is being noted that a radio comic's reference to George Birthington's wasday drew hearty laughter from the studio audience—as it might in any kindergarten group.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — I can remember being mildly surprised at the storm of protest raised by the fans when word was given out that Norma Shearer had been selected to play Scarlett O'Hara. It was my opinion, as I said at the time, that whether Miss Shearer played Scarlett or not was unimportant, as the actress would be secondary to the character anyway. The producers by that time had done an artistic job of kicking up attention by beating down every thicket in the country, looking for Scarlett, taking tests here and there, and stringing out the fuss for well over two years.

There was no question about Rhett (one of my New York friends wants to know if Rhett is the way we spell rat in the South), but the person of Scarlett had come to be something of a religion and a vision, and if you attempted to change anyone's opinion as to whom Scarlett should be, or why, you were ridiculed, abused, and thereafter cut dead.

I GOT a flattering sack of "fan" mail after writing that, in the final analysis, the identity of the actress who was to play Scarlett would be of no consequence, and most of the letters began with "You Dope," "You Ignoramus," or "You Cheap Blighter."

Which was natural, of course, because you either like Mr. Roosevelt or you dislike him, and in this country of extremists, political, religious, or cinematic, one has one's ideals and one sticks by them.

But I can not refrain at this time from saying, "You see, I was right," because in the end, when the snipe hunt was over—when the producers with lantern in hand were beating through the bushes while the movie-loving public held the sack—what did they do? Did they name the girl you had in mind? They went out and got an unknown little English girl who played Scarlett O'Hara as if she were Margaret Mitchell's pet sister.

And that her name is Vivien Leigh means very little. That she plays Scarlett as you hoped she would play, after means a great deal, because after you leave the theater you aren't thinking of Miss Leigh—you are thinking only of the girl Miss Mitchell had in mind when she wrote Gone With the Wind.

I THINK the picture is heart-breakingly beautiful. I will say frankly that I went in with a chip on my shoulder, because Hollywood takes strange liberties with its material sometimes, and I did not see how it could justify the promise of Gone With the Wind. No novel has ever been more faithfully transposed to the screen. I did not think the producers of today, whose ventures into art are always governed by the weight of the money-bags, would have the courage or the vision to look upon this assignment as a challenge, and accept it as such.

I have not handed out many posties to the movies in the past, because, in my opinion, they haven't done many things to deserve it. But in this instance I take off my hat. There was an occasion—and Hollywood rose to it.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Dec. 30, 1919.

Wagner Hardware Company announced intention to close retail store on North Park street and confine business to jobbing trade exclusively.

Mansfield was without electric light and power for 11 hours, due to short circuit near Lucas.

Raymond Hipp, former resident, was here from Atlanta, Ga., for a visit.

John H. Davis, 72, died.

Birth report: Son to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Biddle.

Charles Mountain, sr., 78, Civil war veteran, died.

David Goldsmith was surprised by Freundlich store associates on 67th birthday anniversary.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Dec. 30, 1934.

A. B. Endly and his brother, Edward R. Endly, celebrated their birthdays at a family dinner at the A. B. Endly home.

Mrs. W. W. Stark and Mrs. L. B. Hamilton were hostesses for a tea at Racemelon Riding club following a polo and exhibition riding program.

Mrs. Annis Annette Finley, 78, of Ashley, mother of Mrs. Frances Osborn, died of a heart attack in an ambulance en route to General hospital.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. E. McPherson, at General hospital.

Auto driven by Albert C. Roth and Mrs. J. Fink were badly damaged in a collision at the corner of Fourth and Main streets.

"GONE!"

Battle Over Trade Pacts Probable

—By CARTER FIELD

THE IMPENDING session of congress will not be as non-partisan as the recent extra session was. To be sure, there was a fight at the extra one on the neutrality issue, but it wasn't on party lines.

Democrats and Republicans, New Dealers and conservatives were mixed, on both sides of the question. Partisanship was waived in view of the overseas and oceanic war emergency. Opinions differed as to the best way of keeping the United States out of the conflict, but there was no difference whatever as to the imperative necessity of preventing Uncle Sam from being drawn in to it.

War still will be raging when the legislators assemble, and if more war problems arise, perhaps they'll be considered in a non-partisan spirit.

War Problems. Our anti-war guarantee, however, practically was the ONLY issue at stake on Capitol Hill during the extra session. Numerous other subjects will be up for discussion beginning in January, and on these there'll be no such disposition on the lawmakers' part to disregard Democratic and Republican, liberal and conservative alignments. It would be expecting the impossible of political human nature to count on those solons to show their eyes to the imminence of the 1940 conventions and election.

President Roosevelt wants a short session. Naturally he does to prevent the Democrats from disagreeing between themselves any worse than they're split already. It's no cinch that he'll GET what he wants, though. Senators and representatives don't like to be detained in Washington TOO late in an election year. They prefer to get home, to make local "medicine." Nevertheless they don't care to be choked off on Capitol Hill overly early. The "Hill" is a good place for them to broadcast from.

The Tariff, as Usual.

The coming big rumput will be over tariff protection. State Secretary Hull, as we know, is heading in the free trade direction, by degrees, with his international reciprocal trading compact. Congress authorized him to make these dickers on his own responsibility and he's made 20-odd of them. Plenty of national legislators demand a termination of this executive power. They object to it on general principles. Anyway, they say, such bargains in effect are TREATIES, which the senate ought to have to ratify—or reject.

As traditional protectionists, the Republicans, of course, oppose the Hull policy.

As traditional free traders or low tariffites, the Democrats should support it. But a lot of Democrats are NOT very sound free traders. Moreover, our agricultural states' representatives contend that foreign farm products are being let into the U. S. A. in competition with our own. Some other stuff also—like copper.

Our manufacturers don't care so much. They think they can compete with anybody. Still, they have the old-time protective complex.

Spending-Lending.

It goes without saying that the administration's spending-lending policy will be panned from the congressional jump, both by Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats.

The fact is that the "rightist" Republicans and the anti-New Deal Democrats are a new party. And the "leftist" Republicans and the pro-New Deal Democrats are an opposition party. This readjustment has been going to assert itself since about the days of William J. Bryan.

It may manifest itself very conspicuously in the coming session of congress.

Health and Diet

What 1940 May Bring In Medicine.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY EDITOR suggests that I write my article looking towards the future and expressing my views as to what I would like to see happen in the future in medicine.

I think the most important thing is to clear up the virus diseases. This, of course, has been the object of intensive research all over the world in the last ten years. I list it first because it seems the most possible. We are just on the verge of finding the cause of infantile paralysis, smallpox, chickenpox, the common cold, mumps, measles and perhaps many other contagious diseases about which we are at present in the dark. When the cause is found, I believe methods of specific treatment will also be found.

When the great new science of bacteriology dawned on the world in the 1880's and 1890's, the causes of a number of diseases—diphtheria, typhoid fever, tetanus, meningitis—were found, and immediately serums for their treatment were developed. I hope the same thing will happen to this group of virus diseases.

Treatment for Neuroses.

Second, I hope that some sort of a labor-saving treatment will be perfected for the neuroses—the hypochondriacs, the neurasthenics and the hysterics. Our present treatment is laborious, wasteful and not very successful. I have little hope of the accomplishment of this, but considering the enormous amount of economic and human waste that occurs in this field, it is certainly much to be desired.

I still want an instrument to measure the amount of pain as a thermometer measures the amount of fever, a subject which I mentioned several weeks ago.

An anesthetic for surgical and obstetrical cases, which will be 100 per cent safe, 100 per cent efficient and 100 per cent pleasant to take, is a dream that may become a reality at any moment.

It is difficult to think of anything that the surgeon needs. All we can hope for is that by the use of chemical and physical treatments, his field will become narrower and narrower.

Post-War Epidemics.

A grim reality that we must face this year is the possibility of post-war epidemics. Not only was the world apparently ripe for another war in 1939, it is almost ripe for another influenza epidemic. The major epidemics have been from 25 to 40 years apart, and just as we had a whole new class of young men who had never been in battle, so we have a whole new population that has never been immunized to influenza.

The assembling of great masses of men under conditions in which sanitation is difficult, and the movement of great numbers across wide areas of country, and where they come in contact with new populations, invariably mean the spread of disease.

We are told by Dr. J. H. D. Webster, of Edinburgh, with the same finality that an astronomer predicts the return of a comet or an eclipse, that a major epidemic of influenza will probably strike the world in February, 1941.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLESSED are the peacemakers," President Roosevelt reminded Americans on Christmas Eve. A day earlier he had appointed Myron C. Taylor, retired steel magnate and refugee rescue worker, as his personal representative to the Vatican—"in order," he wrote Pope Pius, "that our parallel endeavors for peace and the alleviation of suffering may be assisted."

In similar letters simultaneously Mr. Roosevelt called in Dr. George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of Churches, and Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, to help rally "all the churches of the world which believe in a common God . . . for the re-establishment of world peace on a surer foundation."

Five-Point Plan. Pope Pius acclaimed the president's announcement as "a Christmas message which could not have been more welcome"—and, in his Yuletide address to the cardinals, offered a five-point program for "a just and honorable peace."

"Assure the right to life and independence of all nations, large, small, strong or weak," he urged. Free the world from "the slavery of armaments." Perfect international organizations. Fulfill "the needs and just demands of nations, peoples and ethnic minorities."

Let statesmen embrace Christian principles.

In Bethlehem, birthplace of the Christ whose sermon Mr. Roosevelt borrowed, pilgrims observed the Holy Land's first peaceful Christmas in three years. Elsewhere, that night, there was little peace on earth.

At Home

Business: The Summing Up.

Postal employees relaxed this week after handling the heaviest volume of Christmas mail ever. Into cash registers of U. S. retailers, Santa Claus had dumped the latest stack of dollars rung up during any holiday shopping season since 1929. And Midwest farmers were made merry by snow and rain that brought their parched acres the first general moisture in many weeks.

The nation's income this year, Commerce Secretary Hopkins estimated, would total $68,500,000,000—an increase of $4,500,000,000 over 1938. Although commodity prices advanced, he reported aggregate purchasing power gained. Retail sales rose about 8 per cent. Factory production, still below 1937, averaged 25 per cent over 1938.

Censors Over Here.

1. In Chicago, the AFL musicians' union boss told theater managers he'd pull his fiddlers out of the pits unless they deleted gags about CIO's John Lewis. They did.

2. At Cambridge, Mass., where Harvard is, the city council outlawed the words "Lenin" and "Leningrad" in printed matter. But the police chief said, "I don't think we'll do anything about it."

Savants In Session.

During the week between Christmas and New Year's each winter, American wisemen pow-wow to chart the year's march toward truth and make contacts for jobs.

Most distinguished of this week's sessions convened at Columbus, O., where the American Association For The Advancement of Science pondered such subjects as a system of "rubber geometry" handy for describing atoms' innards.

Bacteriologists met, meanwhile, at New Haven, Conn., speech teachers, geographers and librarians in Chicago, geologists in Minneapolis.

Wanted: More Crops.

"Land is still wearing out faster than we can restore it," Secretary Wallace told reporters this week, and announced that the Farm Security Administration would refuse loans to farmers planting only one cash crop. By this move he hopes to get farmers to conserve land by turning to crop-rotation.

Upcoming Pensions.

The Social Security Act originally envisaged retirement pension payments by 1942. But last summer the law was revamped: The payoff date was pushed forward two years, and the plan was broadened to aid not only workers but their wives, widows and dependents. During the coming year, it's estimated, 1,000,000 persons will receive more than $100,000,000. The first checks will be mailed next month.

Abroad

The Earth Shakes.

Earthquakes may be caused by volcanic explosions or subterranean shifts in the earth's crust. Some parts of the world have 4,000 a year—most hardly noticeable. The worst on record killed 300,000 at Calcutta, India, on Oct. 11, 1737; the worst recently, 25,000 in Chile last Jan. 24. In Turkey, last September, 200 died when more than 1,000 buildings were demolished.

And there, last Wednesday, a series of violent shocks destroyed whole villages. Water mains and railway tracks were snapped. Thousands fled in terror to the open fields. The toll was put unofficially at more than 25,000 dead and injured as soldiers dug into smoking ruins. Tremors were felt, same day, in Central America and California.

Far East Forecasts.

The war in China, 30 months old next week, already has killed more people and caused more widespread destruction than four years of World War. But China's leaders celebrated Christmas at a peak of optimism. Army heads predicted recapture of Nanking, strategic southern rail point occupied recently by Japanese in their drive to knife Chinese supply lines.

Nipponese, however, reported Chinese winter offensives crushed on three fronts with 16,500 more Chinese slain.

People

Man With Two Countries.

Eighteen days after Hitler's army steamrollered into Poland, Ignace Moscicki, aged Polish president, hurried into Rumania—and resigned. Then he asked admission to Switzerland for treatment of his heart disease. Swiss authorities hesitated, checked their files. There they found Moscicki, who had lived in Switzerland as a chemist, before the World War, still listed as a citizen. So he left Rumania Tuesday for his "second home."

Women In War.

The Berlin hausfrau must plan ingeniously these days to serve her brood a balanced diet. But ration-

Timely Tips

Dr. Smiley Blanton, New York psychiatrist: "A canvas of New Year's resolutions would show that a majority of them represent a kind of self-punishment rather than a technic of change—and in most cases they are so numerous and so harsh that there is no possibility of their ever being carried out."

Dr. Charles V. Aklin, U. S. Public Health Service: "There is no proof that coffee suspends or abates the after effects of alcohol. . . . Sleep is the most recuperative. Also emptying the stomach."

ing is less rigid, an AP reporter finds, in rural areas. And while a soap shortage gives little Fritz a fine excuse for not scrubbing behind his ears, "air baths," plus use of cleansing fluids brewed from horse chestnuts and potato peelings, are recommended officially "to reduce body odors."

Besides her government allowance, moreover, many a soldier's wife, is collecting her husband's peacetime wages from an employer who can dodge surtaxes by maintaining his pre-war payroll. And the Reich, now finding its manpower sufficient to fill the regiments and also keep the home front operating, has stopped recruiting women as factory hands, streetcar conductors, postmen and taxi drivers.

Remote Control.

In a political battle at the turn of the century, Kansas City's Pendergast machine licked the Shannon machine for control of the city government. Later Tom Pendergast, to keep the Democrats on top, made peace with Joe Shannon and helped send him to Congress. Shannon's still there, but Boss Tom is in jail for evading income taxes. Remnants of their machines, nevertheless, combined this week in the city council to elect a Kansas City man city manager over a Michigan fellow backed by Mayor Bryce B. Smith, who then resigned.

Newsman In the Making.

Reporters who crowded into the President's oval study last Tuesday—day after Christmas—got little news, but met the President's grandson, nine-months-old Johnny Boettiger clad in yellow rompers. While the lad gleefully tore a newspaper to bits, his foxy grandpa explained that as an applicant for the White House Correspondents' Association, the infant was being taught to distinguish between "background information" and "off-the-record" news.

Excuse It, Please.

For papas who snooze while mama walks howling Junior at 2 a. m., Prof. Edward H. Kemp, Brown University psychologist, has a fine alibi: Many people, he says, are deaf to such shrill sounds as the cries of birds and babies.

In Short

Discreed: Al Jolson, "mammy" singer, and dancer Ruby Keeler. Convicted: Abraham L. Shushan, lieutenant of Louisiana's late Huey Long, of mail fraud.

Killed: 246 Germans, in two railroad collisions that boosted the Reich's toll from such accidents to 383 dead in 11 weeks.

Fined: 20 Russians and a Soviet book company, a total of $2,500, for failure to register in Washington as foreign agents.

Increased: Larceny, rape, murder, burglary and aggravated assault during the first 11 months of 1939, in 316 U. S. cities.

Lost: Christmas day, by the crew of the North Star, flagship of Byrd's Antarctic expedition, while crossing the international date-line.

Died: Anthony Fokker, aviation's first millionaire; U. S. Rep. John A. Martin, of Colorado; Dr. George E. Brewer, surgeon; Henry L. Doherty, oil magnate.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

What fun, Fabienne thought, to know how to do things like that. I wouldn't have touched a live fish.

Ellen yawned deeply. "I can't keep my eyes open."

"Neither can I," Fabienne said sleepily.

They said good night to each other and went to bed each to lie wide awake for hours. Fabienne to dream of a farmhouse, to see herself sitting in a big, cool kitchen that smelled of spices, waiting for a man whose bulk would fill the doorway.

In her narrow white bed, Ellen looked into a picture that came to life in her imagination and she saw a gracious dining hall in a Maryland mansion and the face she saw across from her own above the flickering tapers was an aging face, graceful, contented, rich with the knowledge of a life of usefulness had marked upon it. And it was Nicky's face. She sighed and relinquished her dream.

"Nicky! Such a bad boy!" There was affectionate reproach in Gertrude de Ligne's voice as she swept into her drawing room in a swirl of black chiffon and bore down on Nicky who kissed the slender hand she held out to him.

"Should have paid my party call. May I be forgiven?" he pleaded, not too fervently. Gertrude, he saw at once, had sent for him either to ask something of him or to find out something she wished to know.

"Wasn't it a lovely wedding? But I've been so lonesome, Nicky," she said pathetically, distributing the folds of her gown over the edge of the amber brocade chair.

"To have both of my children leave me! You're lucky that you'll never be a mother and know what it is to lose your children."

"You've still got the twins," he pointed out.

"But they're in school in Switzerland," she said sadly. "And now Dick is so far away and Fabienne . . . oh, dear, Nicky . . . what am I to do about Fabienne?"

He shrugged and offered her his cigarette case. "What's the matter with her?"

"That's what I hoped you could tell me. You and I are closer to Fabienne than anyone else, darling. Sometimes I think you are much closer than I am. I've let my little girl get away from me. But your beautiful attachment goes on without interruption."

Morton came in at that moment with a tray of cocktails and saved Nicky from making the reply Gertrude obviously expected.

He shook his head when Morton brought the tray to him. "On the wagon," he explained.

Gertrude wrinkled her brows quizzically, but she smiled at him. "Not really? Why, Nicky?"

"Working," he said. "The Bartlett company discourages morning-after headaches. An office boy has to keep his wits about him."

"Working! You?" Gertrude forgot her picturesque pose.

"That's right. A guy's got to settle down some time."

Gertrude relaxed. She said delicately, "Then you and Fabienne—"

"Sure. We've both settled down to work. It gives us both a kick."

Gertrude, annoyed at the way he'd turned the conversation, took it firmly in hand.

"Nicky, you've got to help me about Fab. I'm not at all happy about her. In the first place, she's practically made me a laughing stock. Everybody knows what a cruel blow it was to find that grandfather had left the old Willoughby house to a settlement organization. And then for Fab to boldly espouse the same cause . . . well . . . it's pretty obvious, isn't it, that she did it for no other reason than to—to make me unhappy?"

"I don't think you do Fab justice," he told her quietly.

"Justice! Justice! When I am trying to save her from her own folly! I'm ambitious for my daughter, Nicky, and it hurts me to see her doing something she can only regret later. Fab wasn't meant for the sort of thing she's doing."

"She seems to like it. She's useful, she's—she's swell. She's only waiting for a chance to go back to the full-time job she had before."

"Oh!" Gertrude said, her train of thought arrested. "You mean she's not working at the settlement house?"

"Only on that little theater thing. Bill Mallory doesn't think she's strong enough to take on a full load."

"And this Dr. Mallory," she said casually. "Do you think Fab is interested in him?"

"I think she's head over heels in love with him. If it comes off, you're to be congratulated."

Gertrude had other ideas. She said, "Nonsense, it's only an infatuation. You're the only person she ever really cared for, my dear."

Gertrude was too wise in such matters to embarrass Nicky any further, so she hurried on to say, "If you could only get her away from that wretched place where she lives!"

Nicky's expression chilled. She said, "Have you seen it?"

"No, but I don't have to. I met that little Miss . . . what is her name? . . . Oh, yes, Chapman. She was at the wedding. You remember? Would you say that she was the sort of person that Fab is? So common, Nicky."

Nicky got up. "I've got to run along, Gertrude, but I want to say one thing before I do. It's this—Fab is getting to be the sort of person Ellen is. And a good thing! Ellen is a girl in a million."

For a long time after Nicky left, Gertrude sat calmly, studying her folded hands, thinking of the disclosures Nicky had made. "So that's the way the land lies," she said softly. "Fabienne is falling in love with a penniless doctor and Nicky finds the little Chapman 'a girl in a million.' I'll have to do something about such a ridiculous situation."

When the Comtesse de Ligne made up her mind to do something, she seldom lost any time going about it. At 11 o'clock the next morning her long maroon limousine, with a crest on the door, stopped before the professional building where a small sign in a long list of similar signs read, J. W. MALLORY, M. D.

The community waiting room, so unlike the handsomely furnished waiting rooms where Gertrude had visited her various physicians, was sparsely furnished with plain wooden chairs and a single library table with a lamp on it that made her shudder delicately. Dr. Mallory probably slept on a cot in his office, she thought.

Dr. Mallory appeared suddenly in the doorway and was enormously surprised to see her. He came across the room to her at once.

She held out an expensively-gloved hand and said, "Surprised, Doctor? I'm not a patient. I've come to talk to you about my little girl."

"Won't you come in?" he invited at once. He pulled a chair out for her and sat at his desk waiting for her to speak.

"Dr. Mallory, you've been taking care of Fabienne since she's been ill and I wondered if you'd noticed anything . . . well, peculiar about her?"

"Not really," he said. "The Bartlett company discourages morning-after headaches. An office boy has to keep his wits about him."

"Working! You?" Gertrude forgot her picturesque pose.

"That's right. A guy's got to settle down some time."

Gertrude relaxed. She said delicately, "Then you and Fabienne—"

"Sure. We've both settled down to work. It gives us both a kick."

Gertrude, annoyed at the way he'd turned the conversation, took it firmly in hand.

"Nicky, you've got to help me about Fab. I'm not at all happy about her. In the first place, she's practically made me a laughing stock. "She seems to like it. She's useful, she's—she's swell. She's only waiting for a chance to go back to the full-time job she had before."

"Peculiar?" he repeated and was again silent.

Gertrude laughed a little uncertainly. "Fabienne is a peculiar child, Doctor. She's so used to having her own way. She goes to unusual lengths to get it. It's all my fault, of course. I should never have opposed her when she wanted to marry Nicky in the summer. She may have told you why she threw herself into this work for which she is not suited."

Bill did not answer and Gertrude went on:

"Of course, that's why she is doing it! Now, Doctor, I want you to help me. I want you to find some way to keep her from going back to Willoughby house. I want her to come back to me. The work there is too hard for her."

"I've been telling her that," he said.

"Then you will help me! And Nicky!"

"I'll do my best, Doctor. I want you to help me. I want you to find some way to keep her from going back to Willoughby house. I want her to come back to me. The work there is too hard for her."

"I've been telling her that," he said.

you'll not let on about this little visit? Naturally Fabienne doesn't believe that I—I—have her—"

"Best interest at heart," Bill finished in a cold, professional voice that masked his sarcasm. "You may depend on me, Comtesse, to do what I can."

Seven patients cooled their heels while Bill sat morosely staring at the telephone. For the second time he said, "Well, that's that, Mallory," and pulled the telephone toward him. He thought he knew a way to meet the demands of both Fabienne and her mother. He dialed Fabienne's number, and when he heard her voice, he felt a funny heaviness under his necktie knot. "Fool!" he said. "What would I be doing with a lump in my throat? Must be getting a cold."

BRITISHERS CALM IN WAR. CORVALLIS Ore. — (AP) — "Trust in God and keep your Martinis dry!" That is the motto of the British people as they go about the business of war calm and relaxed, Dr. J. W. Ellison, professor of history at Oregon State College, reported in a letter home.

Young, Florence Rice, Frank Craven and Henry Hull head the cast.

"Mutiny in The Big House" starring Charles Bickford and Charles MacLane comes to the Park theater this week-end, with a midnight show scheduled for tonight. It is the story of a prison riot, and of the heroic priest who broke it up, saving the lives of many innocent men. Bickford plays the role of the priest, and MacLane is seen as the leader of the prison mob.

Also on the Park bill is "32nd Street," with a cast which includes Kenny Baker, Pat Patterson, Ian Hunter, Leo Carrillo, Sid Silvers, Zasu Pitts, Jerry Colonna and the 52nd Street Girls.

"Some Like It Hot." With Bob Hope and Shirley Ross dispensing comedy, and Gene Krupa, "king of the hide-beaters," making his motion picture starring debut, "Some Like It Hot" comes to the Majestic theater Sunday and Monday. Also featured in the cast are Una Merkel and Rufe Davis. Two of the hit tunes from the picture are "Some Like It Hot," and "The Lady's in Love With You." Sharing honors with this picture will be Bob Burns, with Gladys George, in "I'm From Missouri." The management announced today there would be a late showing of these features at 11:30 New Year Eve.

"Wizard of Oz." Successfully combining for the first time adult and juvenile appeal in a motion picture fantasy, "The Wizard of Oz" comes to the Ritz theater Sunday as the feature attraction for three days. The picture, in technicolor, tells the story of a little farm girl who is thrown by a cyclone to the magic land of Oz. The cast is headed by Judy Garland, Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Margaret Hamilton. The co-feature on the Ritz bill is "Miracles for Sale," a murder mystery laid amid a group of professional magicians. Robert Cassell, superintendent for the fifth year; Paul Selby, new member to the Sunday school board; Don Miller, secretary; Russell McCulloch, treasurer; James Clapper, chorister, and the following department superintendents: George Hoover, adult; Harry Simmons, senior; Frank Derkey, junior; and Mrs. Theodore Meyer, primary. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor, will be the installing officer.

For his sermon Rev. Swoyer will speak on "Why Worry in 1940?" The choir will sing two numbers, "Blessed Hour of Prayer," and "Softly and Tenderly." At the 9:45 a. m. service Rev. Swoyer will speak on "God's Offspring." The choir will sing "Arise, Shine, For Thy Light is Come," and for the offertory, Anita McLaughlin and Miriam Oswald will sing as a duet, "Whispering Hope."

Richard Smith, a student at Hamma Divinity school, Wittenberg college, will act as discussion leader at a meeting of the Senior Luther league at 6:30 p. m. The league will hold a watch night party at the home of John K. Linsenmayer, 485 Woodward avenue from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. The church council meets at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the church, the Fifth district meets Wednesday at the church, and the Women's Missionary society meets at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the parish house.

SUCCUMBS AT 81

BUTLER—Mrs. Ida M. Ohearn, 81, died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. A. Bone, near Ashland. She is survived by two sons, Ira Ohearn, of near here, and C. W. Ohearn, of West Salem; her daughter, Mrs. Bone, 13 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

GAY SEASON ADDED TO BY MARRIAGES

Two Mansfield Girls Choose Holiday for Weddings; Third Bride Announces August Date on Christmas Cards.

THE GAIETY of the holiday season this year has been marked not only by a variety of pleasant parties, but also by a number of weddings. The former Miss Leona Marie Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Walters, West Fourth street road, is telling friends now about her Christmas morning marriage.

Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, read the ceremony before the church altar at 11 a. m. for Miss Walters and Edgar Raymond Schaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schaus, West Fourth street road. Appropriate Christmas decorations were used on the altar.

Miss Dorothy Hamaker Wed Holiday Eve

Another marriage of note to the Mansfield community took place at Park Hills, Covington, Ky., on Christmas eve when Miss Dorothy Hamaker, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Hamaker, 83 Luther place, and Jay F. Long were united in marriage by a double ring ceremony read by Rev. Lorin L. Spenny of the United Lutheran church.

For her marriage Miss Hamaker wore a sea green street-length dress with bracelet length sleeves and dusky rose accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Long are now at home in the Zediker apartments on Blymyer avenue.

Christmas Cards Tell Of August Nuptials

When her friends received Christmas cards from Miss Daisy Nadason, they learned of her marriage to Wilbur F. Jolley. The wedding was solemnized in Catlettsburg, Ky., on Aug. 28, 1939. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lena Nadason, 119 South Foster street, and Mr. Jolley is the son of Mrs. Daisy Jolley, 208 South Franklin avenue.

Personals

Miss Martha King, 117 West Second street, is spending the week-end in Cleveland as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Corey.

Mrs. Elizabeth Guenther and daughter, Elverda, 136 West First street, have just returned from visiting their son and brother, Raymond, at Bucyrus.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Trying to make my answer as encouraging as possible, I spoke swiftly and playfully.

"I am all curiosity," I said. "Please tell me quickly, and if it is anything you wish me to do, pray consider it done."

She flashed a smile at me which held a hint of wistfulness.

"I have learned that already, dear Madge," she said. "But I do not wish to abuse your good nature."

"Suppose you let me be the judge of that," I told her. "Do let me hear your 'very strange' question, which, incidentally, I do not believe will be strange at all."

"Wait until you hear it," she said, a sudden gleam of mischief lighting her eyes. Then she suddenly was grave again.

"It concerns the state of Philip Veritzen's mind," she said, hesitated and then went on. "Do you know what his attitude is toward his son's marriage? Will you speak freely to me about it, even if, as I suspect, you may have to bring my daughter's name into the discussion?"

"Do you mind if I speak frankly?" I countered.

"That is just what I am asking you to do," she said.

Let's Give Thanks On New Year

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

No matter how little we may have, we have enough as Americans to put some real heart into our New Year's Greetings. We still have the freedom to think and talk, and we enjoy a free press. These blessings seem to be taking flight in less happier countries.

As on-lookers, forced to witness bloody ruthlessness, we are unhappy, but we can at least be generous and give—"give until it hurts."

How often have we spoken those lovely words: "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" and how miserably the whole world has failed to live up to them! Do we ever stop to think what civilization might have accomplished if we had really put meaning into those words, if they hadn't been, to most of us, just an empty parrot cry?

Without good will, there can be no peace on earth, and yet, how the world longs for peace! Not the maniacs who help destroy what we have of civilization to flash "round the world their names. Not the modern blood brothers who, like Ghengis Kahn, slaughter women and little children to bring about their dreadful ends. Time and history will deal with us as it has dealt with their predecessors in frightfulness.

And if there should come to hand one of those parodies of the press which deals in violation of an oath, we Americans can read the perjuries for what they're worth, perjuries which tell of blessings brought by fire and sword to peaceful people.

We resist our natural impulse to do violence to such, remembering that someone has said you "cannot eat the cake of democracy and have it too." Such falsehoods are like the measles; better to have them come out in violent rash than be suppressed.

That sort of paper hawked on street corners is a cheap price to pay for freedom of expression.

And our New Year gratitude can take the form of doing without something—the price of a ticket to a show, something we covet to wear, our meals can be simpler, we can walk rather than ride, and give our mites in thankfulness that we are not called on to suffer as Europe suffers.

We can be thankful we're keeping our men at home, for it will not help the world to pour out blood as we did twenty years ago. War begets war. And the price of peace is preparation rather than striking blows.

WOHOLE PRESIDENT.

Miss Helen Stenstrom was elected president of the Woholo class of the Evangelical Congregational church last evening during a meeting at the home of Miss Helen Hess, 44 Arthur avenue. Miss Wanda Stuckey will assist her as vice-president. Miss Helen Metzger was named treasurer, and Miss Audrey Stuckey will serve as class secretary. Refreshments were served after the business session, and the group had an exchange of gifts. The place of the Feb. 2 meeting will be announced later.

CLUB TO MEET.

Mrs. J. D. Phillips will entertain the Coterie club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Park avenue west. The meeting was formerly scheduled for yesterday afternoon.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAVOR SIMPLE PLAYS
We all know the type of person who uses elaborate, complex and fancy methods throughout life in matters which can be handled better by simple, straight forward measures. At the bridge table we find this manifested by people who have a predilection for squeezes and lead-throwing end-plays, when less spectacular procedures would produce the desired result better.

The South players at two tables of a duplicate game opened this deal with 4-Clubs as a shut-out effort and the Norths took it to 5-Clubs, which each West doubled. The Spade queen was led at both tables.

At one, the king lost to the ace and the return was ruffed. South then ran all of his clubs, hoping for a squeeze and holding two cards of each red suit in the dummy. There was no squeeze, however, because West held two diamonds, his heart ace and the spade jack, so beat the contract.

At the other table the spade queen was ducked, then the jack was laid down and ruffed by south. A club to the ace was followed by a third spade ruff, dropping the ace. Then came the rest of the clubs, South's losing diamond later being discarded on the spade king.

Welcoming of 1940 Begins With Dances Last Evening; Variety of Private Functions Promise Entertainment

THE first tinkling strains of the new year's night launched a long week-end of celebration for the coming New Year as groups of every type and age welcomed 1940 with some kind of party. It was Percy Lowrey's band that gave the syncopation for University clubbers and their guests in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland last night. The holiday dance was held between the hours of 10 and 2.

A number of pre-dance parties entertained the group. Among those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Roth, Davey avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuntz, Glassner avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Ruhland Isaly, Woodhill road, and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lindsay, Cline avenue.

Since the organization of the Junior Assembly, the very young set of Mansfield's socialites are also enjoying a variety of parties. The members had a formal dance last night at the First Congregational church.

Plans for the coming days include a family dinner party to-night for members of the Willing club at the home of Mrs. Ada Magnity, 61½ Penn avenue. Our club members will have a New Year eve dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom from 11:30 p. m. to 4:30 a. m. when breakfast will be served. Arrangements are in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh B. Drummond, H. Eugene Shoemaker, and William H. Mogg.

Of course there will be private parties galore, ranging from the family affairs to large and swanky events. Three private clubs will likewise welcome the holiday. McVey post of the American Legion will have a dinner-dance and party beginning at 11 p. m. Sunday, while Prince Umberto lodge, Sons of Italy, will take over Eagle hall at 9 o'clock for a dance, and the Moose lodge will also have a dance at the new home.

New Year day the Mystic club will continue the annual custom of open house at the Masonic temple for members of the club and all members of the Masonic order.

IN THE RHYTHM BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

MR. AND MRS. JOHN Q. FAN stumbled on a number of items in yesterday's questionnaire, we understand.

It was too tough, we were told. "Give us something easier," one requested. "How about a Mansfield questionnaire?" another asked.

Well, that's what it will be today... a Mansfield questionnaire. And the scoring will be the same; count five for each question. If your score is 60 you're good. You're excellent if it's 80. And, as mentioned yesterday, if you tally 90 or more you should qualify as an expert.

QUESTIONS

1—What school won the 13th annual Mansfield Relays?
2—Who won the Possum Run men's golf championship? What was the name of the statewide golf tournament in which he finished third?
3—Name the Tiger who tossed the last-second basket which gave Mansfield high the district cage title?
4—What was the monicker of the horse named after a popular radio announcer which featured the county fair race program?
5—Give the name of the Mansfield-Standusky football game?
6—Who was the internationally-known golf star who appeared in an exhibition at Possum Run and what was his 18-hole score?
7—What was the batting average compiled by Hank Edwards, Mansfield right fielder?
8—What pilot of the Mansfield Broves produced the best managerial record last season?
9—Name the school John Linta, Mansfield high pole vaulting star, is now attending?
10—Where did Vern Hoffman, Mansfield high cage mentor, coach last season?
11—By how many strokes did Pro Jack Collins of Westbrook fail to qualify for the P. G. A. tournament?
12—Name the former Mansfield baseball star who was among the voting leaders in the poll for the diamond sport's hall of fame?
13—Who was the Mansfield bowler who rolled the only 300 game this year?
14—What was the name of the Braves' pitcher who was nicknamed the "Fireman"?

Tygers Prove Too Tough for Sandusky; Win 39-26

Fourth Win of Season

Rose and Herpich Play Spectacular Ball on Defense for Mansfield Cagers.

By CHARLES MARTIN

COACH Vern Hoffman and his Mansfield high cage proteges are back home today after chalking up one of the most impressive triumphs of the season—a 39 to 26 victory over the Sandusky high Blue Streaks last night on the Junior high court in that city before some 1,300 roaring fans.

Falling behind by an 8 to 5 count in the initial quarter, the Tygers, led by Sophomore Jack Shiplet, came charging back in the second chapter to overcome the deficit and hand the inspired Sanduskians their first setback in three starts.

Once the Tygers moved into the lead it was practically impossible for the Blue Streaks to halt their fast-breaking attack. With Don Rose and Bill Herpich performing brilliantly to set up easy under-the-basket shots, Mansfield encountered little trouble after that opening period.

Mansfield, in chalking up its fourth win of the year, looked like a different ball club than the one that dropped decisions to Canton McKinley and Columbus North.

The Tygers ability to break fast under the basket caused the losers no end of trouble. And the way Rose and Herpich advanced the ball from the back court was pleasing to Mentor Hoffman.

Unable to locate the basket in the early minutes of the game, Mansfield, after going ahead, 1 to 0, in the opening seconds, soon found themselves trailing when Sandusky flipped in three goals in a row.

Coach Hoffman sent Shiplet into the contest at the end of the quarter, and when the Tygers started the second stanza their passing attack began to function with precision.

Before Sandusky could set up a defense to halt that attack Mansfield collected seven points in lightning-like fashion. And that lead was never lost.

Piling up a commanding 16-point advantage midway in the final period, the Tyger varsity left the contest and the seconds got into the thick of the battle. The Reserves didn't score a point, but the quintet's ball-handling kept the Blue Streaks from gaining possession of the ball.

Mansfield gained a 21 to 15 lead at the intermission and was leading, 34 to 22, as the clubs went into the last frame. The Tygers best efforts were in the second and third periods when they scored 16 and 13 points, respectively.

Shiplet, the pint-sized forward Hoffman is grooming to replace Gene Rudolph in mid-season, proved to be the spark that set the Tyger scoring machine into full speed. Rudolph graduates in January.

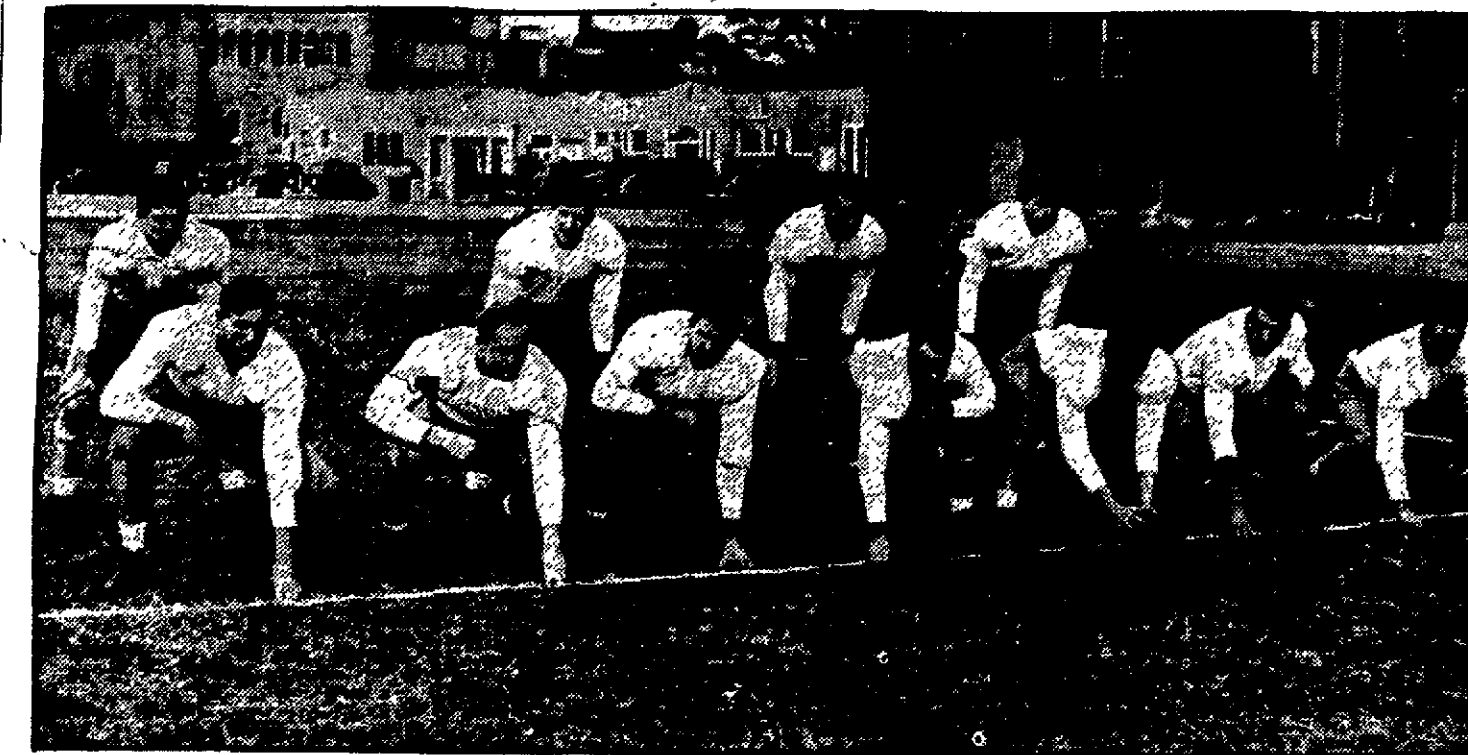

Gene Miller, whose fifty one-hand shots from in front of the basket was a feature of the contest, shared individual honors for the evening with Shiplet. Both youths collected 10 markers.

Bill Harris, subbing at center for Ben Fleming, paced the Blue Streaks with eight points.

With Martin Henke leading the way, the Reserves walloped the Blue Streaks seconds, 40 to 26, in the preliminary game. Henke slipped in 10 points. The Reserves was ahead, 10-5, in the first quarter, 22-11 at the half, and 30-22, at the end of the third stanza. Silvani was high-point man with 12 markers.

The Tyger-Blue Streak affray was delayed several minutes in the second period when Referee Able Long of Newark called a double foul on Russ Beer and Bill Harris. Harris missed his free throw and when Beer stepped up to shoot the Sandusky fans started booing. Beer missed the toss and Long immediately called a technical foul on the crowd. Coach Wallace Greenwight rushed on the floor protesting the decision. Beer took a second shot and made it.

New Year's Day Hunters Need 1940 Tags.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — State Conservation Commissioner Don Waters said today that those hunters who want to hunt on the last day of the rabbit hunting season—New Year's day—must have a new 1940 license. The 1940 licenses and tags, together with the 1940 fishing licenses and buttons, have been sent out and are in the hands of license selling agents.

Veteran Pros Bow to Speed

Rex Billiards Gain Revenge By Turning Back Augustine Canfields, 28 to 21, In Prelim.

NEW YORK'S ORIGINAL CELTICS came to Mansfield with a record showing 338 victories in their last 358 games. They left these environs last night with one more defeat, and the whipping was applied by the City League All-Stars, who were not accorded a chance in the pre-game reckoning.

The underdog Mansfield quintet fashioned one of the most stunning upsets witnessed on the high school court before a crowd of 600 bewildered fans when it outpointed the famous Celtics, 42 to 39, in a contest that finished with the spectators standing on the seats.

Running around their more experienced opponents like scared rabbits, the City leaguers made up a 12-point deficit in the second half to pull what appeared to be certain defeat out of the fire.

When little Davey Banks sunk a field goal on the opening tip-off, the spectators settled back to witness what they expected to be a slaughter.

The touring professionals hung up eight points before the Mansfielders retaliated. The Celtics never rushed or quickened their slow pace. They led 23 to 15 at the half.

At the start of the third period, the Celtics extended their margin to 27 to 15. Then the City leaguers went to work.

Sparked by George Hummel, the City leaguers hung up 12 straight points midway in the third period to knot the count at 27-27. Still, the spectators were not moved.

The general opinion was that the Celtics could win any time they desired. It looked like it, too, just before the end of the third quarter when the Celtics again went ahead by a 33 to 27 count.

Things began to happen in the fourth quarter. Playing with only five men and against a team which made them step a lot faster than they ordinarily play, the Celtics were forced to yield to a tie when Noel Morgan, Freddy Lewis and Tom Ferrell scored from the field.

With the Mansfielders offering more of a battle than anticipated the Celtics resorted to rough tactics, and it was a pair of free throws by Al Sticker which gave the home town boys their first lead of the game.

Banks knotted the count a moment later by converting two charity tosses, but Sticker took a pass from Ferrell under the basket and gave the City leaguers a 37 to 35 advantage and it was never relinquished.

Ferrell increased the margin to four points when he dumped in a bucket. Nat Hickey parted the nets with a long shot, and then Eddie Lore, former Mt. Vernon high star, who is now attending Missouri State Teachers college, gave the Mansfield team another four-point lead with only a few minutes remaining.

With a minute to go, Hickey again tallied for the Celtics, but the ball game was over when Morgan counted for the City leaguers from the foul line in the final 15 seconds.

The Celtics have class written all over themselves, it cannot be denied, but they lost last night because they were unable to keep up with the fleet-footed City leaguers. Speed won this ball game.

Every one of the eight players used by in the All-Stars' lineup contributed his share toward the victory. Freddy Lewis was the high scorer with a dozen points. Banks tallied 14 for the Celtics, who played without the services of the veteran Dutch Dehnert.

Rate Illegal Kickoff Run Oddest of Season.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — (UP) — West Virginia sports writers rate the illegal kickoff run which went for a winning touchdown in the Wheeling-Bellare (O.) high school football game the year's most freakish episode. The incident gave Wheeling a 6 to 0 victory on Thanksgiving day.

A Wheeling end scooped up a teammate's kickoff on the 20-yard line at the start of the third period and ran for the touchdown. The ball was legally deflected. Carlisle Doolings, of Columbus, O., was the referee.

Clash Monday In Semi-Final

Higami, Jones to Support Knutsen-Mephisto Tiff.

Next Monday night's all-star wrestling card scheduled for the Army started to take shape today as one of the standout shows of the indoor mat season in Mansfield.

Tim Nolan, matchmaker for the Quality Club, announced the signing of a semi-final contest to go with the main-event previously signed.

Tetsuro Higami, clever Japanese jiu jitsu star, and "Buzz" Jones, Belting Wyoming lightweight, have contracted to meet in the semi-final of two out of three falls with a 45-minute time limit.

The top event of Monday night's show pits Gil Knutsen, blond Canadian, against The Great Mephisto, colorful American Junior heavyweight contender.

The winner of this one will get a title crack at Billy Weidner, world's junior heavyweight title holder here in the near future.

Double-Header On State Card

Bucks Hosts at Twin-Bills Tonight and Monday.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Four formidable basketball squads converged today on the state fairground coliseum for the first twin doubleheader tournament ever held here.

Ohio State's Bucks, chastened by Kentucky in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, will square off to-night against Pittsburgh. Cornell will take on Michigan's rampaging Wolverines in the other half of the opening program.

Two of the nation's outstanding gridgers will oppose each other in the Cornell-Michigan opener. Speedy Tom Harmon of the Wolves and Howie Dunbar of the Big Red invaders were down as starters.

The teams trade opponents Monday night, Ohio State meeting Cornell and Michigan taking on Pittsburgh. In another outstanding game that night, Iowa will invade Toledo.

Other Saturday games in the state are Ohio Wesleyan at Xavier and Assumption of Canada at Fenn.

Geygan 'Quits' Fremont Club

FREMONT — (UP) — Officials of Fremont club of the Ohio State Baseball league are seeking a manager to replace James (Chap) Geygan, who piloted the team to the league championship in 1938 and finished second this year.

Geygan, a native of Columbus, was released yesterday "by mutual consent." Club officials said a successor would not be named before a reorganization meeting next month.

Geygan played with Boston of the American league and Columbus, Louisville and Milwaukee of the American association. He managed the Sandusky club of the Ohio State league in 1936 and Marion in 1937.

FEELING GRAND? SECRET LIKELY IN BAROMETER

But If Pressure Rises Odds for
Grouch Favorable, Says
University Pathologist.

(By United Press)
MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Your general well-being as well as the weather may be signaled by the barometer, according to Dr. William F. Petersen, pathologist and bacteriologist at the University of Illinois.

The next time you feel a grouch coming on consult the barometer. It is ten to one, said Dr. Petersen, that the barometric pressure will be going up.

The doctor asserted that air pressure plays an important role in health. Sudden death and even spring fever are some of its effects, he contended.

Pain in an abscessed tooth may be due in some degree to high atmospheric pressure; the ability of an athlete to perspire and the tone of his muscles vary with the air pressure; the nervous, mental and even digestive systems react to the stimulus of air pressure.

In normal persons, Dr. Petersen said, high barometric pressure increases the blood pressure and with cold temperatures when the blood runs fast, you feel full of pep. However, when the pressure makes the blood sluggish the effect is to put you in the dumps.

Changes in atmospheric pressure work the hardest pressure on the young, old and sick. Ordinarily healthy persons, the doctor explained, can readily adjust their bodies to outside influences like a thermostat.

Dr. Petersen said changes in the barometer should serve as a warning to physicians to be especially watchful over their patients.

On the basis of a survey, the doctor concluded that the death rate is in direct proportion to the ups and downs of the atmospheric pressure. Sudden increases or decreases in the pressure, he declared, often will show an adverse effect on patients who appeared to be on the road to recovery and sometimes the shock is so great it causes death.

A study of Chicago weather tables from 1915 to 1932, according to Dr. Petersen, showed that deaths increased as the barometer went up and decreased as the atmospheric pressure declined.

He described the area in the vicinity of Chicago and Milwaukee as one of the world's worst climatic regions because it lies in the path of storms from both the Arctic and Southwest and consequently suffers great barometric changes.

Spring fever, Dr. Petersen said, is the result of continually changing air pressures and temperatures throughout the winter. The constant need for adjusting the body to withstand the shifts in pressure and temperature tire it out and by the time the first balmy days of spring come around we are fatigued.

The days are getting shorter. Even the sun, it seems, is tired of looking at the ridiculous doings in the northern hemisphere—especially Europe.

Nothing else to pay
 We guarantee the payments shown in this table to be the full amount you will pay back, when payments are made on schedule. The faster you pay, the less the total cost.

One price to all
 These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2 1/2% monthly on balances up to $500 and 6 1/2% on balances over $500 to $200. These rates are less than legal maximums, and we guarantee they are the same to everyone—no price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorser on any loan. No credit inspection of friends or relatives. To apply, phone, write or visit office.
